

Finding My Comprehensive Forest Management Plan

A forest management plan is a written evaluation of a property that provides a description of the entire property, its condition, and recommendations for applied prescription practices and timelines. Comprehensive management plans qualify you to apply for state and federal cost-share and financial assistance. Below are the two types of comprehensive forest management plans.

Forest Stewardship Plans

- Follows all the above principles of a comprehensive plan, and provides suggestions to the landowner
- No acreage requirement
- Takes the form of a strategic document written by a forester
- Non-legally binding
- No obligations or requirements, but a tool for a landowner
- Generally, the best plan for most landowners to plan management practices for their property

Managed Forest Law (MFL)

- Follows all of the above principles of a comprehensive plan, with additional requirements
- Must own 20 acres of woodlands
- Takes the form of a strategic document written by a certified plan writer
- Must legally conform to MFL program requirements
- In exchange for sound forest management, the landowner pays reduced property taxes
- MFL is right for some landowners, but is not for everyone

Interested in a Forest Stewardship Plan?

- Get started today! Contact your county DNR Forester or Cooperating Forester via the DNR Forestry Assistance Locator to identify goals for your property
- Want more assistance?
 - Contact The Wisconsin Young Forest Partnership to learn more about forest stewardship plans at WYYoungForest@gmail.com

Interested in Managed Forest Law?

- Get started today! Learn more about MFL here
- You can start the MFL application process by asking a certified plan writer (CPW) to prepare the management plan application.
 - Find a CPW in your county by selecting your county, cooperating forester, and certified plan writer here